Military Child Development and Youth Programs

As a working parent, one of your top priorities is to find high-quality care for your child. As a military parent, you have the additional challenge of finding child care that can accommodate shift work, extended hours, and weekend duty; frequent moves; and deployment on short notice.

Recognizing the direct link between child care and members' readiness for service, the military has created a program of care for children and youths that has been praised for its high quality and affordability and called a model for the nation. The Department of Defense (DoD) sets clear quality standards for child development and school-age programs and uses an inspection and certification process to ensure that care on military facilities meets these standards. Ninety-five percent of child development centers and many school-age programs have also met the standards of a national accrediting organization. Providers must have training before they start and continue to complete training modules that the military provides. DoD child care subsidies help parents pay for care.

This article describes the types of child care that the military offers and explains how you can get more information about your installation's programs. Each of the services varies somewhat in its implementation regulations. Once you are enrolled in a program, you will want to ask specific questions about any other rules.
